you can see it here:

http://demo.createursdesites.net/thematiques/kool/index.php?option=com\_content&task=view&id=2&Itemid=

(not the same person, but the problem is the same..)

I've tried to reduce the size of the pictures to make sure, but it's still not working.. The problem is only with firefox, and if i put the menu just after body without any width limit it's still not working. When i installed the menu with exemple pictures the problem was the same. I was ready to sacrifice the contact item to solve the problem but i didn't find how to deactivate an item.

Sorry if my english is not correct..

Ok i've found a way to fix it, even if it's not really "clean"

The problem seems to be with the counting of the total width in the code: in /modules/mod_kwick_sliding_menu.php there's this line:$widthmenuall = $widthmenu * 6 + 25; I've changed it in $widthmenuall = $widthmenu * 6 + 25 +20;and it's working fin. The last item has a "border right:0px;" in your demo, it seems it's the only difference with my css.. and in the module administration we don't have acces to the item width one by one... For me it's working with +25, if someone wants to use this consider that if your menu is larger than mine it should be more...

I hope i've been clear enough, i'm not used to write in english...

Regards from france!
