
newbie question....

Posted by Troy - 2008/07/19 10:21

I have stumble onto your site and have a few questions...
I love the templates and would like to join.

I have not yet installed joomla on my site...I'm trying to learn how.
is installing a template after i install joomla somthing a newbie can do or do you provide a service for that?

I would love to learn more about using this type of website.

=====

Re:newbie question....

Posted by Rob H - 2008/07/19 15:19

Troy,

Its pretty straight forward to install a template once Joomla is installed.

Simply upload your new template to your template folder on your domain where Joomla is installed. To work on the files within the template you need to change the permissions, you can do this using your right arrow key in most ftp software and selecting properties, change them to 777.

Login to Joomla, select Extensions, Template Manager and select the new template .. now make this the Default template using the Default button.

=====

Re:newbie question....

Posted by Sweet! - 2008/07/19 20:00

Thanks Rob.... looks like us visitors are doing most of the work here :laugh:

=====

Re:newbie question....

Posted by Thomas Crawford - 2008/07/20 14:45

Sweet! wrote:
Thanks Rob.... looks like us visitors are doing most of the work here
As opposed to what?

B)

=====

Re:newbie question....

Posted by troy - 2008/07/20 23:08

as opposed to getting an answer from the admin folks;)

=====

Re:newbie question....

Posted by tcraw1010 - 2008/07/24 17:44

troy wrote:

as opposed to getting an answer from the admin folks;)

We address concerns and questions as often as we can. Many of us have jobs and activities outside of TP as well - as I am quite sure that you do. Patience is always a virtue - but rest assured that the TP Staff does make every effort to respond to Member questions and concerns in a timely manner.

:)

=====

Re:newbie question....

Posted by ricardosousa - 2008/07/28 22:13

Yeah what Thomas said is right. We allways try to do out best and its normal that inside a community people who joined and/or visitors can help each other to build up a better community. If you have any additional question feel free to contact us!

Thanks.
Ricardo

=====