
How to post your site?

Posted by Ricardo Sousa - 2007/10/16 22:56

Hi guys,

In order to "customize" this section of the forum and give other users some useful information i thinks good if we create an "model" to all descriptions of sites... dont you think?

So everyone can cut and paste things but we have something similar....

Lets see i think is a good idea if we create an "Site File" What's that something like that (i will do to TP):

Site Showcase

I i will do the showcase of TemplatePlazza.com website...
I hope you like...

Site Name TemplatePlazza.com

Site Image:

Owner Andy Sikumbang

Template Customized / Own theme!

Creation Date: 2005/2006

Subject Joomla Template Club

URL: TemplatePlazza.com

About... A Joomla templates club with subscription. Provide some free templates and a lot of free extensions.. We try to provide the best Joomla templates in the market... Our support and "quick load" templates are our best "mark"!

Components Used: Fireboards, WebLink (core J!), Custom Component, Remository, Contact (core J!)

Modules Used: Custom modules and core modules;

Additional Information: Signup with us ;)

Please let me know some suggestions to the site

So i think this should be a good start... i will put this theard open so we can listen your suggestions...

If you want the code of this model just download this file and copy the code into the post editor...

Please not that is a suggestion. You can adapt this but i think that should be good have something similar...
