Socio template help getting set up

Posted by brown6858 - 2007/11/18 21:21

I bought the Socio template and thought it came with all the plugins to make a community type site. I am not sure how to get everything working correctly. It is all installed and I am unsure if I need to add all the modules and stuff myself or how to get it finished.

I am used to working with wordpress and this is a bit more intense then what I am used to.

I also downloaded the community builder thing from Joomla also to see if I needed to combine these 2 to get all the features I wanted.

Any help would be appreciated and if there is anyone that I can pay a little something to just get this finished that would be no problem.

Thanks... Payton

Dear Mitchale Brown

Welcome to TP and thanks for Join with us!

If i am not wrong.. you want to install Community Builder on your site.

After u'r download the component and all the stuff. you can install through Joomla Backend and please choose Install - Component for CB Component
Install - Module for CB Module
Install - Mambot for CB Mambot

For CB Plugin, you can directly install on CB Component after you got finish install the CB Component on Backend.

Pls let me know.. this is right what u need... or you want to do something else with Socio template...

Dear Mitchale Brown

In addition to the solution from my partner above.

I am used to working with wordpress and this is a bit more intense then what I am used to.

If you meant that you want to use wordpress or like as wordpress on your joomla web site, please download and install the extension for blog system, as same as wordpress like mojo component i hope this is right what you need or you want another information....

I have added those components and still am not sure how to finish the set up where I think it should be doing.

I assumed it would have more things in profiles and some kind of photo gallery also I thought it had a forum and other community features all the big sites are doing now days.

If these things are all in the components and modules somewhere I am not sure how to get them going.

Thanks all that have replied and sorry I am not figuring this out so well. I just need to get all this stuff up and running because the site it's taking over for is kinda in limbo until I get it fixed.
